VENIZELOS AND ISMET HOLD STAGE AT LAUSANNE

Commission Appointed To Consider Zone In Thrace

BALKANS SHIFT

New Alignment Of The Slavs And Bulgars Is Feature

(French Wireless)

Paris, Nov. 23.—The feature of the evening at the Lusanne Conference, according to the newspapers, is the regrouping of the Balkan States, including Bulgaria.

The commission on territorial and military affairs met this morning. Ismet Pasha replied in detail to the declarations and proposals made at the previous sitting by the various delegations.

M. Venizelos replied to certain observations by Ismet Pasha. The commission appointed a subcommittee to examine the proposal for the constitution of a demilitarised zone along the frontier of Eastern Thrace and to study the eventual control of the railway and the port of Dedeagach with a view to assuring Bulgaria an economic outlet to the Aegean Sea. The Territorial Commission will wait for the report of the Sub-Committee, which meets this afternoon, before resuming its labors.

Ismet Pasha told journalists that he would have an interview with Earl Curzon and M. Barrere this evening during which he honed that the fate of Eastern Thrace would be entirely and definitely settled.

RUSSIA TO AID TURK

(Reuter's Service)

Lausanne, Nov. 23.—M. Vorovsky, head of the Russian Commercial Delegation at Rome, arrived at Lausanne today. He stated that he would ask to participate in the conference on the same footing as Bulgaria.

M. Vorovsky declared that the Soviet was absolutely opposed to the capitulations. Russia would support all the Turkish claims but she would not agree to the placing of the Straits under the control of the League of Nations. The Russian Delegation, M. Vorovsky said, was composed of M. Chicherin, M. Rakovsky and himself.

BRISTOL ALSO GOES

Constantinople, Nov. 23.—Admira' Bristol, the American High Commissioner, is leaving this morning for Lausanne to act as an associate observer on behalf of the United States.

NAME SUB-COMMISSION

Lausanne, Nov. 24.—The First Commission of the Conference has appointed a sub-Commission to consider, inter alia, the establishment of a demilitarised zone on the East Tracian frontier and to endeavor to arrange a Bulgarian outlet on the Agean Sea.

HAGUE NAMES THREE

The Hague, Nov. 23.—In response to the invitation to appoint representatives to the Lausanne Conference the Government has nominated Dr. F. G. van Panhuys, the Minister at Berne, and two other delegates.

Bomb Sets Fire To Aero Station; Sun's Men Accused

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Nov. 23.—Last night, a fire broke out in the aviation station here, reducing a hangar, 2 new and 5 old aeroplanes together with all accessories to ashes. It is believed that the fire was caused by a member of Dr. Sun's faction, who threw a bomb into the aviation-station.

U. S. Legation Counsellor Goes To Peking Today

Mr. Edward Bell, the new Counsellor of the American Legation at Peking, who with Mrs. Bell and their two little daughters arrived on the President Wilson from the United States, will leave today for Peking to assume his new duties.

Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the American Minister, who is now visiting Tsinanfu, will board the same train Mr. Bell departs on at Tsinanfu, and return to Peking in his company.

BY J. L. BUTTS

Dzung Sei-chung, so he told the Court, was emerging from an alleyway leading into Yuen-fong Road holding three 1-dollar notes in his hand and bent upon buying himself a new suit of clothes, when he met Waung Au-men.

Waung congratulated the other upon having so much money and then suggested that the sum be lent to him. Dzung said Waung was an entire stranger to him so he felt justified in declining. The next thing the capitalist realised his nose was bleeding, his new bone-rimmed spectacles were a total loss and Waung was spreading a lot of libel among the neighbors about the assaulted party's family tree.

Waung told the Magistrate that he was surprised to hear his accuser tell such a tale. What had really happened was this: he was standing in the Yuenfong Road listening to a group of men who were discussing the present lamentable condition of business. Being more or less interested in the economic situation he went up and joined the circle. He had simply put a well-meant query as to prospects in the near future when this Dzung individual had ungraciously asked him to get out, emphasising the request by pushing him in the face. Waung admitted that he might here made a mistake in trying to butt into the conclave and said that he probably wouldn't have done it regardless of his interest in stocks and things, but for the fact that he had been dallying with the samshu jug. But, he insisted, he hadn't asked for money, and he hadn't wrecked Dzung's cheaters. Whether owing to the lingering effects of the samshu, or of something else, the rest of Waung's recital was hazy and rambling.

A period of two weeks is scheduled to elapse between Waung's last and next drinks.

LI MIS-STEPS

Li Ah-tsung was charged with breaking into a godown, with intent to carry away a quantity of flour sacks stored therein. Loh Zung-sung testified to seeing the defendant enter the premises and stated that he had thereupon taken up the trail and had found the interloper hiding in a corner.

Li demurred. He said he was not hiding. He had caught his foot on some obstacle in the dark and had fallen into the corner. Thereby stumbling also into a cell at the Municipal jail for a month's stay.

EXAMPLE IN COMPRESSION

"If that's just a basketful of feathers you're carrying, then you're making amazingly hard work of it," remarked Chinese Constable 459 to Wong Woo-tah on Hankow Road the other afternoon.

Then the C.P.C. noted that the basketful was both animated and protestingly vocal. Looking more closely he thought that the mass seemed, dimly, to define itself into a close-woven pattern of chickens and ducks.

"We found at the station," the policeman told the Court yesterday, "that three more baskets of similar capacity were needed to give the birds adequate breathing space."

The Court ordered Wong's $3 fine turned over to the S.S.P.C.A.

BETWEEN FRIENDS

Tsang Kwhe-kwhe and Zung Pau-sung resided together in amity at 92 North Fokien Road until the other day, when Zung's bed cover disappeared and suspicion settled on Tsang.

"Yes," Tsang informed the bench, "I took the bed cover and pawned it. But I also pawned my own at the same time."

And, whether it was the brevity of the sentence or the thought that the Court had missed his point, Tsang appeared surprised when they assigned him a cell for four days.

Opposition Is Sharp Critic Of Speech From Throne Especially As To Labor

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald Says King's Utterances Show Lack Of Appreciation Of Terrible Tragedy; Earl Grey Sees Ominous Situation

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 23.—In the course of the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne in the House of Commons today the mover and the seconder dwelt on the peril of unemployment and the change in the position of Ireland.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the leader of the Opposition criticised the reference to unemployment in the King's speech as not revealing real appreciation of the terrible tragedy.

Mr. Bonar Law declared that the Government intended to do nothing to give an excuse for going back on the Irish Treaty.

He again affirmed his refusal to see the unemployed deputation which would be a precedent detracting from the responsibilities of Constitutional Ministers.

With regard to foreign affairs, Mr. Law said that our aim was peace and up to the present there was every prospect of getting it.

Mr. Asquith urged that in addition to the Allies the area of discussion at Lausanne should be widened to cover all nations, great and small, interested in the question, thus evolving a settlement on broad foundations.

SITUATION OMINOUS

In the course of the debate on the King's speech in the House of Lords Earl Grey dwelt on the ominousness of the foreign situation. He declared that we were not far off and probably had already reached the point at which Russia, Turkey and Germany were forming a combination.

The lesson should be taken to heart by France and Italy as much as by Britain. Lord Salisbury replying, said that the Government was determined to maintain the Allied friendship at Lausanne.

London, Nov. 23.—Their Majesties opened Parliament in state this morning. The usual ceremonial was observed. The King and Queen were loudly cheered by large crowds. The weather was dull.

SPEECH OF KING

London, Nov. 23.—The King's Speech at the opening of Parliament today says that he has summoned Parliament to meet in order that the legislation necessary to give effect to the Constitution of the Irish Free State and to make provisions consequential to the establishment of the Free State may immediately be submitted for their approval. The Estimates for public services will be submitted to the House of Commons.

His Majesty expresses deep concern at the state of trade and employment. The ameliorative measures prepared by the late Government are again being examined. Parliament will be asked to provide for their continuance and extension. Parliament will also be asked to guarantee a loan in accordance with the League of Nations, scheme for the restoration of Austria.

The King hopes that at the conference at Lausanne the efforts of the British Ministers, acting in wholehearted co-operation with the representatives of the Allies, will result in the re-establishment of peace and restoration of the security of the inhabitants of those regions which have recently been the scene of so much suffering.

I'LL SAY IT WITH SCISSORS, SAYS LOVELORN SWAIN

Demonstrates His Affection By Stabbing Sweetheart And Biting Brother

Speaking of frenzied courtships and impetuous swains, there is little in the current output of the fictionists to compare with the authentic narrative of the wooing of Tsang-Vung-ling, who describes himself as being, in the ordinary course of things, a local shopkeeper.

Tsang was haled into the Mixed Court yesterday on complaint of Zi Z'au-mai, who alleged that the accused, while formerly well established in her affections, had become too much of a cave man to suit her or to keep clear of the Criminal Code. Previously, she told the Assessor and Magistrate, she had been exceedingly lenient with Tsang, but latterly he had become so frequent in his demands for money that he not only bored her to the point of extinction but had driven her to the brink of bankruptcy.

Last Wednesday when he asked her for further funds she had to inform him that she had pawned the last of her jewelry and credit was closed. His reply was to go to a drawer, extract a pair of scissors and inform the witness that he was going to kill her.

"I thought he was only joking," said Miss Ziau-mai, "until he jabbed me in the throat. Then I knew it was no joke and screamed for help. While it was coming he jabbed me over twenty times with the scissors."

The girl's brother testified that he had dashed into the room in response to the screams and tried to take the weapon away from his infuriated prospective relative-in-law.

"He bit me in the back while I was grappling with him," said the brother, "and when I fell down he almost bit my nose off."

Tsang laid the whole of the blame on the flowing bowl.

"I had been drinking a lot the night before," he told the Court. "And when I woke next morning my head was still funny. I remember getting the scissors and starting to trim my toe-nails, but I don't remember anything that happened after that because my head was still too funny."

The Court was of opinion that about thirty days of carefully regulated solitude might take the "funniness" out of his system.

Sun Pao-Chi Coming To Shanghai Tonight

Mr. Sun Pao-chi, director of Famine Relief, is expected in Shanghai by the night train from Peking tonight. His mission is to investigate the China Merchants' Steam Navivation Company trouble as well as to make certain overtures to Chekiang, which has virtually declared its independence from Peking.

B.A.T. FACTORIES AT FULL TIME; STRIKERS BACK

Cotton Mill Employes At Pootung Not Yet Back At Work

Approximately 90 percent of the employes of the British-American Tobacco Company in Pootung have either resumed work or been replaced and the factories are again working full time. The strike in the Japan-China Cotton Mills still continues, however.

The employes of the cotton mills have been on strike for over three weeks because of the closing up of their union headquarters by the Chinese authorities, and the B.A.T. workers struck in sympathy with them. The B.A.T. issued an ultimatum to their workers and as a result a large number have returned. Those who have not returned have been replaced.

A delegation from Shanghai labor societies called on the management of both companies yesterday and in the case of the cotton mill were referred to the company's head office at 55 Szechuen Road. The delegation also called on the Inspector of the Pootung police and make several suggestions toward bringing the labor trouble to an end.

CLEMENCEAU IS ATTACKED BY SENATORS FOR SPEECH

Borah Declares "Tiger" Is Responsible For Europe's Misery

U.S. NOT TO BLAME

Hitchcock Arraigns The French Policy As War, Not Peace

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 23.—M. Clemenceau's utterance was under fire in the Senate today where in a sharp debate covering recent relationships Senator Hitchcock declared that M. Clemenceau's attitude towards Germany detracted from his appeal to the American people although it was mild as compared with the attitude of the present French Government.

Senator Hitchcock pictured Germany as on the verge of insurrection as the result of the French reparations policy. He declared that it was utter nonsense to expect Germany to meet the demands France had exacted.

French policy was the policy of war not of peace.

Senator Borah declared that M. Clemenceau's accusation of dishonor against America was unfounded and ungrateful.

Senator Sterling (Republican) closed the debate with a defence of M. Clemenceau whose fears of Germany, he said, were well founded.

New York, Nov. 23.—Commenting on M. Clemenceau's address at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday, the newspapers generally sympathise with his appeal for the defence of France against future aggression.

The New York Times says that M. Clemenceau did not make clear what could be done practically to relieve France.

The New York World is of the opinion that in order to gain sympathy M. Clemenceau must deal with the present and future of Europe, not her past.

The New York Globe declares that M. Clemenceau does not see that peace may be secured more effectively by the implements of peace than by the implements of war.

The speech created a furore in the lobbies of Congress. Senator Borah derided the statement that America was responsible for the present difficulties of Europe and declared that M. Clemenceau himself more than any other living statesman was responsible for the misery and the impossible and destructive terms of the Versailles Treaty.

Senator Norris declared that the fact that the Americans had opposed entangling alliances ought to settle the matter.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

M. Clemenceau yesterday reviewed at Brooklyn the 106th Infantry. Twenty-five thousand school children lined the road from New York to Brooklyn and cheered the ex-Premier as he passed.

Replying to the toast at a luncheon given in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce, M. Clemenceau said: "I ask myself whether from the financial point of view it would not be just and logical for America to help France in peace as she did in war. If America were conscious of the enormous power she possesses and if she helped Europe she would be helping herself."

WELCOMES CRITICISM

New York, Nov. 24.—M. Clemenceau interviewed while en route to Boston welcomed criticism and declared that that was what he came for.

Charge Italian With Having Nine Pistols In Italian Court

An Italian named C. Adriano was charged in the Italian Consular Court yesterday with being in possession of nine automatic pistols and 500 rounds ammunition, the case being remanded for further inquiries.

He was arrested in the Yangtzepoo district about midnight on Thursday and taken to the Yangtszepoo station, but could give no explanation to the police as he spoke only Italian. Inspector Johnson is handling the case.

Dr. Eddy, American Welfare Envoy, Asks Employers Here To Ease Labor Conditions

At Two Big Meetings He Pleads For Exemption Of Children Under 12, Weekly Rest Day And Definite Safety Program

Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy, secretary of the International Y. M. C. A., and one of the leading welfare workers in America, addressed a large gathering of mill owners and others at the British Chamber of Commerce yesterday on present day labor conditions in China, and especially on child labor.

In the evening Dr. Eddy spoke to 250 guests of the four Christian Associations in China, at the Y. P. S. hotel. The evening address was preceded by a dinner.

The afternoon meeting was held under the auspices of the Cotton Mill Owners' Association and the Employers' Federation, and Dr. Eddy was introduced by Mr. E. F. Mackay on behalf of the two associations. In addition to Dr. Eddy, Mr. Charles Beswick of the Mill Owners,' Mr. Okada, a Japanese mill owner, and a representative of the Commercial Press made short addresses.

Dr. Eddy in his address said he realised that labor conditions in China were somewhat different than they were in more advanced industrial nations, but that certain basic principles should nevertheless be in execution, including the prohibition of children under 12 years of age working, the giving of one day's rest in seven, and a definite safety-first and welfare program to be carried out in all mills and factories.

TWO VIEWPOINTS

Dr. Eddy said that in the past employers had dealt with labor from one of two viewpoints, one of which, known as the Russian, was by repression, and the other, the British system, by evolution. The British system, he said, was by far the superior, and on the whole, had been fair to labor in granting certain demands and by providing welfare work, looking after the safety of their employes, and taking an interest in them as human beings.

Mr. Archibald Rose of the British-American Tobacco Company, spoke as follows:

"On behalf of the Employers' Federation, I have much pleasure in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Eddy for his kindness in addressing us. Constructive criticism is always valuable, and we welcome every opportunity of getting new light on the questions of industry which are not less difficult here than in more developed industrial countries, though they are not entirely of the same nature.

"May I say a few words from the point of view of the employer? There has been rather a tendency in recent publications to lay stress on the fact that labor is cheap in China, and that the employer finds it very easy to exploit his work-people and to make big profits.

"Now in order to understand the question of wages, costs and prices in this country, we must remember that industry is not a new thing in China. All sorts of industries have been carried on in the villages and homes for countless generations. Those home industries are still at work and they produce so cheaply that even now it is very difficult for modern factories to compete with them. They can produce cheaply because the people work very long hours, and generally under the most trying conditions, and everyone in the family down to the youngest child does his share. The only justification for the factory is that it enables people

NOYES, 'A.P.' HEAD, ARRIVES TONIGHT FROM CAPITAL

Chinese Newspaper Men To Give Dinner Tomorrow; Other Functions

Mr. Frank B. Noyes, head of The Associated Press, the largest news gathering organisation in the world, will arrive in Shanghai from Peking by train tonight for a short visit.

Mr. Noyes will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the Y. P. S. Hotel given by the Shanghai Journalists Club on Sunday night at which foreign newspapermen will also be guests. On Monday he will be the tiffin guest of Mr. W. Turner, General Manager of Reuter's in Shanghai and on Tuesday he will be the tiffin guest of the American University Club in conjunction with the American Chamber of Commerce.

The Shun Pao, one of Shanghai's leading Chinese newspapers, will give a dinner in Mr. Noyes' honor on Tuesday night. Other affairs are also planned in his honor.

Mr. Noyes will be guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the Association of Chinese Newspapers at the Great Eastern Hotel on Wednesday night at 6 o'clock.

FRANCE NOW PLANNING TO NULLIFY THE ARMS PACTS

Deputies Committee Is Against Ratifying Naval Treaty

PLANS CHANGES

Refuse To Be On Par With Italy As To Tonnage

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 23.—Interviewed by the Chicago Tribune, M. Leygues, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee Of the Chamber of Deputies, declared that the Committee would report against ratification of the Washington Agreement.

If the Chamber ratified the Treaty, he said, it would be subject to so many reservations that the situation accepted at Washington would be completely modified. France would refuse to agree to naval equality with Italy.

M. Leygues strongly protested against French tonnage being based on the present ratio instead of on the pre-war figures.

STREET UNIONS HERE ASK RETURN OF MIXED COURT

Representatives Hold Meeting And Send Wire To Peking

Definite plans for the return of the International Mixed Court to the Chinese were formulated at a meeting of the Amalgamated Street Unions last night which lasted several hours. Seventy representatives from 29 streets participated. A historical review of the existence of the Mixed Court was given and a translation of the Land Regulations of Shanghai was read and explained to the delegates.

Resolutions were passed to petition the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to press the matter with the Diplomatic Corps as well as to instruct the ministers abroad to take up the matter with the foreign governments and to reprint 100,000 copies of the translation of the Land Regulations for distribution among the Chinese residents.

The following is a translation of the telegram despatched to the Foreign Office in Peking:

"The essential idea of the judiciary is to be independent from all outside influence. In the seventh year of Tung Chi of the Ta Ching Dynasty, while entering into treaty obligations with foreign nations, special stipulations were provided concerning the hearing of Chinese and foreign law cases. The assessor was appointed merely to look after the interest of his own nation.

"During the Revolution in 1911, the Senior Magistrate, Pao Yi, fled from office, which action resulted in the temporary control of the court by the Consular Body. The ground for this action was that the Republic of China was not yet recognised by the foreign powers.

"But recognition had been given to the Republic for 11 years. This Court should long have been returned to China in the name of justice. The residents in the entire Settlement are determined that the court should be returned to China, so after a formal meeting called by the Amalgamated Street Unions, it had been resolved that your Ministry be requested to convey our wishes to the Diplomatic Corps and secure from them the return of the court. Our aspiration must be reached so that once more the spirit of the judiciary may be restored."

U. S. MAILS DUE

Three more mails are due in Shanghai from the United States this month. The President Jackson, which sailed on Nov. 11 is due November 28; the Siberia Maru, which sailed October 31, is due November 28; and the Nile, which sailed November 4, is due on November 29.

FRENCH CLUB WILL PRODUCE ENGLISH FARCE

Cercle Sportif To Give Three Performances Of "Preedy And The Countess."

The French Club is showing much enterprise by producing for the first time in its history an English play and has selected for its initial venture in this direction R. C. Carton's clever farce 'Mr. Preedy and the Countess.' The production is due to the energy of Mr. C. S. Speyer, a member of the Entertainment Committee of the Club. Mr. Speyer is fortunate in having secured the co-operation of Mr. Lewis H. Rawson, who is producing the play and appearing in the part of "Preedy," a role he played a few years ago at Home. Mr. Rawson is an actor and producer of considerable experience, but has not so far been seen here in a 'big' part.

"The Countess" is to be played by Mrs. A. J. Stewart, whose performances in "The Gay Lord Quex" and "The Cabinet Minister" will be remembered by many Shanghai playgoers. Mrs. A. Michael and Miss Bunty Richardson, who have both appeared in B.W.A. productions, are included in the cast and Mrs. L. H. Rawson, who has one of those character studies in which she excels.

Newcomers include Mr. J. Dewar an actor of considerable experience, who is well known to Singapore and Hongkong audiences, especially the latter, he having appeared in several important parts at that port. Messrs. C. S. Speyer, H. J. Collar and A. Dodd appear on the Shanghai boards for the first time and the cast also includes Mr. A. B. Puddicombe and Mr. L. Lienard, whose clever performances in "The Skin Game" will be remembered, and Mr. A. J. Hughes whose reappearance on the stage after a long absence will be welcomed.

There will be three performances; Saturday, December 2; Tuesday, December 5, and Thursday, December 7. Non-members may secure seats through any member of the Club and the booking plan is now open. Applications for seats may be sent to the Secretary of the Club and members are requested to give the names of those friends they wish to introduce so that the tickets may be sent to them direct.

PRESIDENT WILL HEAD DRIVE FOR FAMINE RELIEF

Millions Now Suffering From Chekiang Floods To Get Help

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 21.—President Li Yuan-hung has accepted the Chairmanship on the Chekiang Flood Relief Drive organised by the China International Famine Relief Commission. As previously reported the Famine Relief Commission took steps to launch a country-wide campaign to raise funds with which to meet the persistent and pressing calls from the various public bodies, Chinese and International, for relief measures urgently awaited by the millions rendered destitute by the typhoons and floods throughout Chekiang.

The work of organising the campaign is left in the hands of a special committee, which tendered to the President a unanimous vote asking him to head the drive. the President has now accepted the invitation. Plans are to be formulated at the next meeting of the committee, which will be held on Wednesday, November 22.

Columbia Country Club's Barn Dance On Tonight

The Columbia Country Club will hold their old style 'barn dance' tonight in a ballroom that has been transformed into a typical Middle West American barn. Among the features will be a shooting match for a Thanksgiving turkey. Dinner will be served. The invitations read that "all those who come in more pretentious garb than overalls and calico will be considered as snobs and treated accordingly."

DEMAND REMOVAL

Students of Nanyang University at a protest meeting passed resolutions to send a telegram to Peking demanding that President Yu Yung-ding of Tongshan University be dismissed for his alleged actions in having soldiers compel Tongshan students to leave the school.

President Yu is alleged to have had the soldiers drive the students out because they took one day's leave without [illegible] and made [illegible] funds.

Dr. Eddy, American Welfare Envoy, Asks Employers Here To Ease Labor Conditions

to work under more healthy and better conditions, with reasonable and regular hours, with proper holidays and with such wages as enable them to lead a life of reasonable comfort. The overhead charges of a factory are so large that wage bills cannot be suddenly increased in any industry without gravely disturbing business. We all know of factories now which are having very hard times, and we cannot move too quickly on the question of wages and working hours without risking the very existence of some of these young industries which are very valuable to China. We cannot move too quickly from the old conditions of home industry to factory life.

"We are well aware that there are factories in this country wher conditions are really bad. I know that I can speak for every employer represented here tonight when I say that we do not want to defend long hours, child labor or unhealthy conditions. We are working together now—not to defend such things, but to try to improve industrial conditions. We know that the prosperity of our enterprises depends on the health and happiness of our workers.

"I have visited many factories all over China and, although I know that there is room for improvement at many points, I can testify from experience that a large number of employers, both Chinese and foreign, are doing their best to take care of their workers. I am convinced that there is a genuine desire to avoid the sufferings that accompanied the early days of industry in other countries. It is not easy to introduce the same conditions as exist in the more advanced countries of the West. Housing conditions cannot be hurriedly adapted to meet the pressure of population in industrial centers, but many employers are already building homes for their workers. The presence of children in factories is disliked by employers as much as by welfare workers, but it is practically impossible to keep them out entirely, owing to the conditions of Chinese family life. Even on that point a steady improvement is being shown and many employers are starting primary schools to take care of the children of their employes during the working day. Welfare work is growing steadily. Shifts of about ten hours are recognised as being practicable. Rest-rooms, meal-rooms and hospitals are being provided. Sundays, or some other day in the week, are being treated as regular days of rest. And provident funds, for the benefit of workers in old age or after a specified period of service, have been started by a number of employers.

"Industry has been handicapped during recent months by an epidemic of strikers. Workers are being told that no improvement in conditions can be obtained except by stoppage of work. I believe that in general the exact opposite is true. Employers are showing a genuine desire to improve conditions, both as regards wages and conditions of work, but these strikes are only serving to cripple industry.

"There is some difference of opinion among employers as to the desirability of recognising any form of workers' Union. They are nervous of such unions partly because they have been used so largely merely to stir up political and industrial unrest.

"Here again I think we must remember the special conditions existing in China. The growth of large industrial centers has disturbed the fabric of Chinese social life by removing large numbers of men and women from their villages and their families. They have thus lost the mutual support, and the discipline and restraint of their old life. Some means must be found of creating a new support, a new discipline and a new sense of responsibility. A number of us are trying the experiment of founding social clubs for each factory, and we must try to educate our workers to a sense of their responsibility for the welfare of their factory as a whole. During a recent visit to Hankow I came in contact with some of the labor leaders there and I am happy to say that I found them reasonable men who accepted their responsibilities with courage and stood by their undertakings in an honorable way.

In conclusion, I can assure Mr. Eddy, and all who are interested in labor in China, that the employers represented here tonight are anxious to do everything in their power to improve the condition of their workers and to consider carefully any suggestion as to the way in which their happiness and prosperity can be improved. The suggestion and encouragement of strikes will be disastrous to the young industries of China, and to the real interests of the workers. But the stimulation of employers to a sympathetic understanding of the workers' needs may help very much. I am convinced that we could show, and we should like to have an opportunity of showing, some factories here where one has only to look at the faces and general appearance of the workers to know that they are as happy, as healthy and as prosperous as any community in China, and where conditions of labor could safely bear comparison with those of the more developed industrial countries."

Dr. Eddy in his lecture on "The Christian Church and the Industrial Unrest" said in part:

"The great problem which China and the world in general is facing today is one of race and industrial unrest.

"The world is in a turmoil. Everywhere there are strikes and labor troubles. India is seething. Workers are striking throughout China and Japan. Tramcars are at a standstill on the streets of Cairo. Similar conditions prevail in Germany and Italy. England has just passed through a great coal and rail strike while there have been on an average 3,000 strikes a year in the United States.

"The report drawn up by the Walsh Commission and submitted to the Washington Bureau divides the causes under four heads—

"Unjust distribution of wealth.

"Unemployment increase.

"Labor's growing feeling of injustice.

"The denial to labor to form protective organisations for industrial benefits.

ENGLISH EXPERIMENT

"While in England I visited Mr. Rowntree, the great Cocoa king. There I observed seven thousand workers living under ideal conditions. Model houses, model schools, and everything provided for their social and mental needs.

"Mr. Rowntree gave as his solution of the industrial problem three possible ways.

"Make employers so strong that they can crush labor and forbid trade unions and use Russian methods and attain the results which that country has experienced.

"Have a balance of power. Allow both sides to organise and then you have suspicion in both camps.

"Remove the causes of unrest. Give the worker a fair wage, let him have enough to live on and marry and be able to provide for his family.

"Have fair hours of work. For England I would propose an eight hour day. Rowntree's factory is producing more under the present system of a five day working week of eight hours a day than it did before in a six day week of ten working hours a day.

"Have security provided for the life of the masses and consult labor on their working conditions and finally let the workers have a fair share of the profits.

"Employers in England are beginning to awake to these conditions and it is also growing among American manufacturers.

"In the industrial problem in China we are confronted with different conditions. An eight hour day in this country would be a calamity at the present time. We should be impartial and non-partisan. Do away with child labor such as I have witnessed in various manufacturing centers in this country.

IN A MATCH FACTORY

"I have in mind one place I visited—a match factory. There were employed in the building children from 9 to 12 years old working 15 hours a day, breathing in those deadly fumes which made my own lungs burn after half an hour. Forty cases a day were being treated in the hospital from the effects. Better chemicals would have saved many lives but then it would cut down the profits of the manufacturers.

"I saw rugs, which I had so often admired in the homes of the wealthy, being made. Boys serving three years apprenticeship without any pay and working ten hours a day. After the completion of their three years they are generally discharged and have no other recourse but to become rickshaw pullers and in five years time they are physically finished.

"The Church has a great deal to say in the solving of the problem. I have seen the church in Russia siding with an autocratic tyrannical government against the masses, resulting in both the church and its God being cursed. Austria and Germany made the same mistake. The church was not with Christ and the people, but with autocracy and tyranny. It is no good to save the souls of a few individuals. We must get at the root of the evil and wrestle with the problem until we arrive at a solution.

"The church is awakening to these conditions and is getting into lives of the people by personal contact with its members, helping them to make the gospel which they preach have its effect on their daily work."

OTHER MEETINGS

In addition to the meetings already announced, Dr. Eddy will give a series of three addresses at the Nanyang College beginning this morning at 11 o'clock. He will also speak to the students of St. John's University on Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

Dr. Eddy will speak at the Union Church tomorrow morning, and address returned students and English speaking Chinese under the auspices of the Sunday Service League at the Memorial Hall tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

On Tuesday he will be one of the guests of honor at a tiffin given by the American University Club in co-operation with the American Chamber of Commerce.

On Monday evening he is to be a guest at dinner to Chinese employers given at the Union Club by Mr. C. C. Nieh, Manager of Heng Foong and Great China Cotton Mills.

Dr. Brewer Eddy will address student meetings for the schools of the southern district of Shanghai at the South Gate Presbyterian Church on Sunday and Monday afternoons. He will have a similar meeting for students of the West Gate region at the Bridgeman's Memorial School on Monday afternoon. In addition he will speak at the Soochow Middle School and Law College of China and Chen Tien High School. These meetings are all under the direction of the Student Department of the Y.M.C.A.

Stanley Jones will lecture at the Fuh Tan and the Shanghai College on Saturday and Sunday. On Monday and Tuesday he has been invited to address the students at the Shanghai College, The Fuh Tan College and the Ching Chong Middle School.

Reports from different centers indicate that meetings for Dr. Jones and Dr. Brewer Eddy have been very warmly received and much good has been accomplished in presenting the message of Christianity to students.

Pierce Butler Of St. Paul Named For U.S. Supreme Court

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 23.—President Harding has appointed Mr. Pierce Butler of St. Paul Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, in succession to Mr. William Rufus Day.

Pierce Butler was born March 17, 1866, graduating from Carleton College Northfield in 1887. He was admitted to the Minnesota bar in 1883 and was married to Annie M. Cronin of St. Paul, Minn., in 1891.

For several years Mr. Butler was county attorney in his native state and in 1897 started in general practice at St. Paul. From 1899 to 1905 he was general attorney for a railway, resuming his general practice in 1905. Mr. Butler has been a member of several Federal and State commissions and is prominent in Minnesota politics.

CAN YOU AFFORD IT NOW?
IF you or a member of your family falls suddenly ill, do you postpone the calling in of a physician or other qualified person until you feel you can afford it? Certainly, proper treatment may mean a considerable and unexpected outlay, but whatever your other expenses may be, you recognize that this is something that will not bear postponement, but must be arranged for at once.
SIMILARLY with life insurance. When men say they will take out a policy later, but cannot afford it immediately, it means that they do not appreciate the real importance of the services which life insurance renders. If you ever need insurance you need it now. The question is not as to whether you can "afford" it, but as to how you can possibly risk being without it. It is urgent. Tomorrow is as uncertain a quantity as any subsequent day, and your good intentions will not be of material benefit to your family in case of your premature death without having provided for their maintenance.

JAPAN REFUSES TO LOWER PRICE OF GERMAN LOOT

Chinese Press For Some Depreciation Cut But They Are Obdurate

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Nov. 23.—The 12th meeting of the Second Section of the Sino-Japanese Joint Commission was held today. The Chinese commissioners brought up an inventory of the property, left behind by Germans, which is disused and which requires subtraction.

They insisted that due consideration be given to the amount of depreciation which is to be deducted from 53,000,000 gold marks, an estimated price of the whole property Japan took over from Germany.

The Japanese commissioners declared that the price named was already fixed and could not be changed. The discussion lasted some two hours.

TALK OVER SALT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 21.—The First Section of the Sino-Japanese Joint Commission held its thirty-eighth meeting at the Waichiaopu yesterday at 4.00 p.m. The following questions were taken up:

(1) The Chinese Commissioners exchanged view with the Japanese Commissioners on the question of export of salt from Tsingtao, price of salt, point of delivery of salt, and the exporter, as brought up by the latter. It was decided to continue the discussion after the quantity of salt to be exported is decided upon.

(2) The Japanese Commissioners brought up a new proposal on the land question. In view of the fact that the views of the two delegations were still far apart, the Chinese Commissioners received their reply until the said proposal has been studied.

(3) The Chinese Commissioners brought up their reply to the Japanese proposal for settlement of the question of the Tsingtao-Sasebo cable. The Japanese Commissioners brought up another proposal. This question remained undecided.

(4) The Japanese Commissioners brought up resolutions on various questions concerning telephone, etc. The Chinese commissioners promised to reply thereto after studying them.

(5) The Chinese Commissioners presented their reply in regard to the disposal of public properties connected with wharves.

WILL DRAFT TREATY

(6) The Sino-Japanese Drafting Committee was selected as follows: China:—Messrs. K. Kee, H. H. Kung, T. Y. Wu, T. C. Wang, H. C. Yu and C. Chao: Japan:—Messrs. Kimura, Kishida, Hayashida and Kanki.

The meeting adjourned at 7.00 p.m. until 10.00 a.m. today.

The Thirty-ninth meeting of the First Section of the Sino-Japanese Joint Commission was held at the Waichiaopu, this morning at 10.00 o'clock. The following questions were taken up:—

(1) On the ground of Annexes 5 and 6 of the Shantung Treaty, the Japanese Commissioners protested against provisions in the regulations of Kiaochow Commercial Port concerning foreign representation. Discussion on this subject lasted for two hours. Finally they announced that they reserved to themselves the right to take up this matter with the Chinese Government.

(2) The Japanese Commissioners brought up a memorandum on the question of wharves and warehouses as stated at the last meeting.

The meeting adjourned at noon until four this afternoon.

Wood Invited To Be Guest Of Commerce Body

(China Press Correspondence)

Chicago, Nov. 20.—The Association of Commerce has dispatched an invitation to Governor General Leonard Wood to be its guest upon his return from the Philippines in January after the completion of his term as governor general.

No announcement as to the exact date of the departure of Governor General Wood from the Philippines has been made in Manila. It was said recently that the time of his leaving office would depend somewhat on the progress made by the legislature in the enactment of legislation.

Says All Pacific Islands Should Work Together For Greater Prosperity

Slosson Of "Science Service" Calls Far East America's Near West And Urges Development

Honolulu, T. H.—Pacific islands, instead of being a bone of contention that caused the recent world war, should work together for the development of their common heritage, for the prosperity of the inhabitants and the benefit of the entire world, Edwin E. Slosson, of Science Service, Washington, D. C., advised the Pan-Pacific Commercial Congress in session here, today, in a paper entitled, "The Near West."

"Uncle Sam has kept his gaze turned too exclusively eastward and even when he glanced toward Asia he has put on European spectacles, instead of seeing things for himself with his own naked eyes," Slosson said. "The Far East—as we absurdly call our western neighbor—offers more of interest and opportunity to Americans than Europe. The Atlantic is bordered by countries inhabited by 325,000,000 people, but the Pacific is bordered by countries with more than 630,000,000.

"The late unpleasantness was commonly called the 'European war,' but now we can see that Europe was merely the battlefield, while the issue lay largely in the Pacific area. The cause of the Great War was merely, on a large scale, what has been seen on a small scale on the American prairies—the familiar quarrel of the cattlemen with the sheepmen and of the settler with them both. It is a symptom of the passing of the open range. The Great War did not begin in 1914, but in 1884 when Germany undertook to put her brand on all the maverick territory in the world. The war did not start on the Danube over the body of the Austrian Archduke, but in the Pacific in 1884 when Queensland quarreled with Germany over the possession of New Guinea. Five years later we were on the verge of a war with Samoa. In Apia harbor three American warships confronted three German warships and only the intervention of a hurricane prevented a battle. In Manila bay in 1898 the American fleet was threatened again by a superior German fleet. Germany's attempt to stake out a claim in Africa was checked by the combination of England, Belgium, France, Portugal and Italy. Her attempt to obtain Mesopotamia and Persia was thwarted by England and Russia. The Great War was, as the German economists frankly stated, a fight for raw material. Germany wanted 'a place in the sun'—tropical territory.

"The reason for this sudden boom in the value of tropical real estate is due to two scientific discoveries — cheap transportation and cold storage. These have made dependencies as important as colonies. Formerly when the population increased, the surplus had to emigrate, that is, to colonize. Now, thanks to refrigerated steamships, they can stay at home and have things brought to them. The old policy was to export people: the new policy is to import raw materials. Before the war, England got 65 percent of her essential foodstuffs from overseas. Germany got 90 percent of her raw materials from the British Empire. It is cheaper for a Londoner to get a pound of butter from New Zealand than from Scotland. It is cheaper for a New Yorker to get a pineable from Hawaii than an apple from up state.

"The natural lines of traffic run north and south rather than east and west. Meridians of longitude are imaginary lines, as the geographies call them, but parallels of latitude mark real and ineradicable differences of climate and products. The temperate zone will be increasingly dependent upon the tropic for the necessities of life.

"Where the sun strikes straightest and the rain falls heaviest, there is the greatest wealth produced. A square mile of tropical land receives more energy from the sun than can be obtained from all the coal mined in the Ruhr valley, and this perpetually and inexhaustibly. Sugar is solidified sunshine. Oil is liquid sunshine. These two products contain nothing but the three elements—oxygen, carbon and hydrogen—derived from the air and water, and put together by the sun's rays. When a tropical island sends on a shipload of sugar or cocoanut oil, it loses nothing, but what comes to it again freely. When a northern country sends off a shipload of coal or petroleum, it is losing something that it can never replace.

"It will not be long before the gasoline supply will be exhausted. Then we must fall back upon liquid fuel that we can raise, either alcohol or vegetable oils. But these can be produced most abundantly under tropical sunshine, so we must look to the south for our future fuel supply unless we want to give up our automobiles, motor boats and airplanes, and go back to the slow coach days of the steam engine. But the Diesel engine, the most efficient of the combustion engines can be run on cottonseed oil, peanut oil, palm oil, any old oil as well as on petroleum. When Professor Diesel jumped off, fell or was pushed off the night boat from Holland, he was on his way to tell the English how, by the use of their tropical territory, they could remain masters of the seas even after the exhaustion of fossil oil. Parliament now has made all the tropical oils a government monopoly to prevent them from falling again into the hands of the Germans. We are getting margarine made now from the coconut oil of the Philippines and Samoa that formerly went to Germany.

"No country can be called independent unless it has command of the seven 'C's'—coffee, cotton, cane copra, cacao and caoutchouc. The United States uses three-fourths of the world's rubber and does not grow a pound of it. Nine-tenths of the cultivated rubber is raised on British plantations. We found out what that meant during the war, when rubber jumped to ten times its former price and our automobile industry was threatened with extinction. Yet we own the Philippines, where there is plenty of good rubber land.

"The Tropics are the richest part of the world in natural resources and the poorest in commercial wealth. The belt between 30 degrees north and south latitude comprises half the land and half the population of the world. There lies the land that must produce the food and fuel of the future.

"The Pacific area includes nearly half the world, and it is the Pacific half. It remained free from great wars until the present century, and even the Great War hardly touched it directly. The Pacific covers a span of 180 degrees of latitude from pole to pole and about 170 degrees of longitude from Ecuador to Borneo. The two meridians cross between Samoa and Hawaii, which, according to the London Times, will be, in ten years, the commercial center of gravity of the world. The United States holds the central position in this field, as well as the two extremities—Alaska on the northeast and the Philippines on the southwest. It was due to Roosevelt's foresight and initiative that Germany did not obtain Panama.

"Pacific islands that, when we were born, were not thought worth the trouble of raising a flag over, have since been found worth fighting for. But instead of being a bone of contention they should be a bond of union."

British Columbia Seeks To Have Act Amended To End Ownership

(Reuter's Service)

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 24.—Mr. Barrow, the Minister of Agriculture, advocating in the Provincial Legislature an amendment to the British North American Act in order to give the Province power to prevent oriental ownership of lands, said that 14,000 acres in the Province were owned and 12,600 acres were leased by Asiatics.

It was now practically impossible to purchase produce in British Columbia which had not been grown by Orientals. The Japanese controlled the majority of the small fruit farms and the Chinese owned the truck farming.

Mr. Barrow supported the resolution of the Minister of Mines urging exclusion of Asiatic immigrants.

Chinese Recs To Play Aurora

The Chinese Recreation Club football team is booked to play the Aurora Sporting Association tomorrow afternoon on the former's ground. The game is to start at three o'clock, and a big crowd of Chinese spectators will be on hand to watch the match. The Chinese Recs' victory over St. John's last Saturday by a score of 2 to 1 has aroused much interest in the C. R. C. eleven. Sunday's game should result an easy win for the Recs.

American Company To Shoot Today

The American Company, S. V. C., will hold their annual Monthly Cup shoot this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The program has been altered so that competitors in the All-Comers match will use the range from 7 to 10, the 900 yard range to be fired at 7, the 100 yard at 8:30, and the Lewis Gun squads will shoot between 10 and 12.

At 1 o'clock the International Team match between 'The World' and the American Company will be fired.

KOO ON SOVIET

It is understood that Dr. Wellington Koo, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, will issue a statement next week outlining China's attitude towards the Russian question and explaining the steps taken to curb the activities of Bolshevik propagandists in China. The statement, it is understood, is meant as an expression of opinion for consumption by foreign diplomats before the opening of the Sino-Russian Conference.

College Men Here Plan Pan-Hellenic; Mishler Is President

At a tiffin held at the Union Club this noon, 15 American college fraternity men, representing 13 national fraternities formed what will be known as the Pan-Hellenic Club of China. The purpose of the organisation is to bring about a more cordial relation and to promote a better understanding amongst the fraternity men in this country.

Mr. R. Mishler, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was elected president of the new organisation; Mr. S. B. Ellis, Sigma Chi, Vice-president; and Mr. William Carter Rea, Lambda Chi Alpha, secretary-treasurer.

The following men were present at the meeting: Dr. T. B. Dunn, Kappa Sigma; F. P. Bills, Delta Upsilon; C. C. Gamble, Alpha Delta Phi; B. J. Stanfield, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Alfred C. B. Fletcher, Psi Upsilon; E. E. White, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; E. T. Stelle, Sigma Chi; S. B. Ellis, Sigma Nu; R. Mishler, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; J. H. Krels, Phi Gamma Delta; Geo. H. Stewart, Beta Theta Pi; Allen W. Lander, Psi Upsilon; Walt J. Williams, Delta Tau Delta; J. B. Powell, Acacia, and William Carter Rea, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The new organisation is anxious to have all American college fraternity men in Shanghai send in their names and the fraternity to which they belong, together with their address and telephone number to the secretary-treasurer, 5 Jukes Road.

Haig & Haig
A LITTLE AND GOOD MOTTO

On the principle that "a little and good" is better for you, you can be gently stimulated by the use of Haig & Haig at no increased cost.

Suspicion

Amongst the innumerable evils that have come in the wake of America's pretence of going "dry," one that must be noted is the growth of suspicion.

So much fraud has followed America's futile effort that honest American (and other) people are made suspicious when there is no ground.

Here is an amusing example:

The hideous trade in substitutes for good honest alcoholic drinks is demoralising thousands and making them suspect anything that has the least appearance of fraud or that they do not understand. Supercriticalness has become an obsession.

Recently Americans, Canadians, Mexicans and others living in or adjacent to dry (?) America have found a mare's nest in the mould marks on the bottom of whisky bottles.

They actually persuaded themselves that clever rogues were cutting a large round hole out of these bottles, removing the contents, substituting something inferior, and putting back the "cut-out" as neatly as a clever dentist replaces a tooth that he has removed.

The thing is, of course, commercially impossible. It will be a loss to the world if America loses, besides its freedom, its sense of humour.

W.H.C. FLAT
SUPER-DURABLE PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

SHENG FAMILY NOT OPPOSING PROBE OF C. M. S. N. CO.

But Will Not Stand For Control Or Public Ownership

The Sheng Kung Pao family, holding the largest lot of stocks of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company, of which an investigation has been ordered by the Peking Government in connection with charges of negligence and corruption, announced yesterday that it would neither participate in the opposition raised by the so-called Shareholders' Association of the China Merchants' against investigation nor tolerate government supervision or nationalisation.

In an open statement, attorneys for the family maintained that before the organisation of the association, the Sheng family was not consulted, nor does the family know anything about the actual organisation of the association. Following the establishment of the Shareholders' Association, the family secretariat has received numerous inquiries regarding the status of the new association. Many suspected that it was one of the promoters.

More than 50 persons attended a banquet at Yih Ping Shang Hotel Thursday night with the purpose of organising the Peoples' Association of Shipping Protection. After pointing out the necessity of establishing such an association, the promoter, Liu Yu-sing, announced the two objects of the association:

1. Not to allow the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company to be nationalised by the Ministry of Communications.

2. To increase China's navigation activities.

Other speeches were also made upon the danger of intervention of shipping enterprise by the government and upon the advantages of managing shipping companies by merchants.

It was decided that the official place for the association be secured at once and that the officers of t' association be elected at the next session.

SEIZE ARMS AT HONGKONG ON PRES. JEFFERSON

Second Steward And Kowloon Hotel Man Are Now On Trial

William E. Pitts, former second steward on the President Jefferson, and Owen James Smyth, an employe of the Palace Hotel, Kowloon, are now on trial in the Hongkong Police Court on charges that they imported a large supply of arms and ammunition.

The arms and ammunition were seized by the Hongkong police on the arrival of the President Jefferson in that port on October 31, and Pitts, who is alleged to have registered at a Hongkong hotel as "W. P. Peters" was arrested when police found 3,840 rounds of revolver ammunition, and 400 rounds of Mauser pistol ammunition in his quarters on the ship. Pitts claims the case is a frame-up against him by someone else who imported the arms and ammunition. The case is still proceeding.

BY "WHISTLE"

The new secretary of the Football Association is to be congratulated on the excellent and comprehensive schedule which has been drawn up for official matches this year.

It is evident that the official side of the game is going to be handled efficiently this year and it only needs all the players to respond by showing the true sporting spirit on the field, to make this season a record in every way.

The weekly meeting of representatives to be held on Wednesdays will give the opportunity of straight discussion on the various incidents which are inevitable from time to time, and should do much to obviate feeling between various clubs which has been a noticeable feature of local football at times.

Today's matches should prove interesting, and specially that between the Engineers and The Public School.

Without under-rating the latter's excellent performances in the semi-final and final of the Skottowe Cup last year, they were very fortunate to get past the Recs and the Engineers in the earlier stages. The Recs were more careful last Saturday and their 4-1 win proves they were taking no chances. The Engineers will probably go all out to prevent the boys from establishing a moral precedent by beating them in the League, and so prepare for the knockout struggle of the Skottowe Cup.

The Police are always an uncertain factor at this time of year, but judging by last Saturday their game with the Club should be a close one, the advantage leaning slightly to the Club.

The Recs at full strength should take two points from St. Xavier's, but the latter team has forwards who are always dangerous and unless the opposing defence is very strong, are always capable of springing a surprise up to the last moment.

The honorary secretary of the Shanghai Football Association informs us that at the weekly meeting of the League Committee of the Association, held on Nov. 22, an incident connected with the First League match between the S. F. C. and St. F. Xavier's on Saturday last was enquired into, and it was decided that the match should be re-played. Last Saturday's match will not, therefore, count in the table for the First League.

We have been informed that the incident referred to was when Leslie, the outside-left of the S. F. C., shot for goal during the latter part of the second half of the game. While the ball was in flight the referee blew his whistle, on the assumption that it had gone out or was going out. The ball entered the net and a goal was afterwards awarded to the S. F. C.

The following have been selected to represent the S.R.C.—A. H. dos Remedios, G. Manley, J. Xavier, C. J. Smith, E. F. Mears, F. C. H. Ollerdessen, G. Johanssen, V.

HAM Hyatt, the old Pittsburg outfielder, was the hardest loser that ever sat in a poker game, according to Harry Kingman. Harry says the Pittsburg club had a special arrangement with the Pennsylvania railroad whereby the traffic manager was to be notified whenever a train with Ham aboard left the Smoky City, so that following trains could be fitted with snow plows to clear the track of the torn up playing cards with which Ham littered the landscape when luck was against him.

He finally got so bad, Harry said, that his teammates refused to play with him, with the result that for several weeks the Pirates quit playing poker altogether. This is pretty hard to believe—almost as hard to believe as the statement about the Pennsylvania railroad equipping the trains in Ham Hyatt's wake with snow plows—but how can you doubt an assertion by Harry Kingman, who works for the Y.M.C.A.?

Well, anyway, Harry said, the team got to losing badly after the poker games stopped, as it is a well known fact that a ball player deprived of his poker is just about as useless and unhappy as one without a striped shirt or a horseshoe diamond stick pin. The losing streak was particularly painful to Al Mamaux, who until that time had been burning up the league, and who was anxious to set a new record for pitching victories. The boys noticed that Al was terribly worried, but they were helpless to do anything about it, much as they liked the young pitcher. About that time, though, they began to notice that Al and Ham were on particularly friendly terms, although they didn't think much about it at the time.

WELL, one day Ham went to the other boys, Harry said, and made them a proposition that if they would resume the poker games he would buy all the cards. Ham was so earnest about it, and the prospect of having a few games without having to pay out half their wages for playing cards was so alluring that they finally consented, whereupon a game was started one night in a Pullman while the team was on its way to Chicago.

The limit was fixed at ten cents, and there were four in the game, Ham, Honus Wagner, Babe Adams and Hack Gibson. Everything went along evenly for a time, although the others couldn't get over their surprise at Ham's equanimity when the cards went against him, as they did, as usual.

Finally, Harry said, it was Ham's deal. After the hands were all out Honus, who was under the gun, passed. Babe Adams, who was next, had three tens, so he opened. Hack Gibson had a pair of dishwashers, so he stayed, and Ham, who had three Kings, also stayed. In the draw Honus asked for one card. Adams drew two and caught a pair of nines, giving him a ten full. Hack drew down to his Queens and caught three cold sixes. Ham held up a kicker and drew one, the one he caught being the other King, giving him all the Kings there were in the deck.

Wagner bet ten cents and Adams raised him ten. Gibson raised again and Ham, of course, raised all three of them. That put it up to the Flying Dutchman again and he raised back. Adams hesitated, but finally decided to boost once more, and Hack did likewise. Ham, with his four Kings, felt about as fearful as Gibraltar feels when a mackerel swims past. All those dimes that were showering down on the table were grist to his mill, he figured.

Well, by that time the word had passed through the train that some tremendous big poker hands were out, so the other players came running. They perched on the top of the seats and climbed all over each other to get a good view of the battle, all of them with tongues hanging out and eyes popping. All except Al Mamaux. Al had gone out on the observation platform at the rear to get a breath of fresh air and so did not hear of the rumpus.

After Ham's raise Honus tossed in another dime, whereupon Babe Adams said "Well, I guess you fellows are too good for me, I'm through." So he showed them the three tens on which he had opened. Hack Gibson hated to lay down a full house, especially against

Kiangwan Challenge Cup Is Big Race Event Today; Maresfield Picked To Win

The Challenge Cup will be the big event on this afternoon's program of eight races at Kiangwan with Maresfield, Social Union, Nationalist and Old Bill entered as well as an excellent list of possible starters.

Maresfield, winner of the Shanghai Champions, with Johnny Heard up, is picked as the favorite, and should win safely despite the advertised prowess of Social Union, the premier Kiangwan pony, with Mr. Crokam riding. Maresfield is unquestionably the class of the Shanghai ponies at the 1¼ miles distance, and as it is the first time the Champions winner will run against Social Union, which does not race on the Shanghai course, the event is drawing more attention than usual this year.

There are 34 entries for the big race and of them it is said that the two favorites, Nationalist, Old Bill, Shenkoland, Salvation, Skyscraper, Bright Folly, Thomas a Becket and Southdown are certain to start with possibilities that Christmas Gift, Silver Streak, Indiana, Ajax, The Knut, and Hakone will also run.

The other races on today's program, which starts at 1:15 o'clock, are:

1—The Novices Race 1¼ miles.

2—The Blackrock Maiden Plate ¾ mile.

3—The Grand Stand Steeplechase (a handicap) 2 miles.

4—The Castle Plate ¾ miles.

5—The November Selling Plate 1¼ miles.

6—The Members Plate 1 mile.

7—The Hermitage Handicap 1¼ miles.

8—The Cleveland Stakes 1½ miles.

AMERICAN CO. WANTS RECRUITS; UNDER STRENGTH

Reorganisation Of Unit Means More Men Are Needed

The American Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps has issued an appeal for recruits because of the recent reorganisation of the company. It is stated that the platoons are not up to full strength of four squads each. There are also several vacancies in the Lewis Gun squads and men may be enlisted especially for this duty. Although not at present used in the U. S. Army, the Lewis gun is an interesting weapon to handle and it is not believed that the present vacancies will exist for any length of time.

Application blanks may be obtained from Lt. W. E. Sauer 15 Hankow Road (S. M. C. Public Works dep't) C-161, who will also be pleased to furnish terms of service, etc., to any man interested.

AMERICAN SCHOOL SOCCER ELEVENS WIN TWO GAMES

Midgets And Juniors Victors In Contests With Jewish School

Junior and midget elevens representing the American School in the interschool leagues were victorious in their opening matches against the Shanghai Jewish School yesterday afternoon, winning easily by scores of 18-0 and 8-0 respectively.

Play in both contests took place largely in the penalty areas, neither American School goaler being allowed to lay a hand on the ball, with the Jewish School goaler busy at all times. The S. A. S. opened their attack with the whistle, and the Juniors were leading at half-time by five goals to nil, after fierce attacks in which Captain Estes and the Pilley brothers scintillated. In the second half, with the wind in their favor, the S.A.S. perfected their offense and scored eight more goals. The scores were made by Estes (4), Marvin Pilley (3), John Pilley (2), Bakeman, White, Crane, and Robertson. The Jewish School boys never threatened, and there was no doubt at any time as to the final outcome.

The midgets won largely through the work of Carl Capen, who played a great game at forward, scoring six goals. Merle Smith also beat the goalie in a pretty play, and the Jewish School scored the other goal against themselves. The final score was 8 to 0 favoring the American School.

The showing made by the American elevens was doubtless due in large measures to the tireless efforts of the coach, Mr. Joseph O. Van Hook. The next games will probably be staged next Wednesday with St. Xavier's College as opponents.

two one card draws, but figured Ham or Honus had snagged the odd one to a two pair draw, and as his full was only six high he decided to call. Ham, of course, raised, and Honus raised right back. That was enough for Rack, who dropped out.

HAM and Honus then went to it, hammer and tongs, until all the money that both of them had, or could borrow, was on the table. Back and forth, back and forth, Harry said, until finally Honus, who was a kindly soul, looked at Ham smilingly and said, "Well, Ham, I don't want to bleed you all night, so I will just call."

Ham was disappointed. He assured Honus that he wasn't looking for sympathy, and hantered him to go on betting if he wanted to, but Wagner declined.

"All right then," Ham said, throwing down his four Kings and reaching for the money. "Come to Papa," he added, speaking to the opulent pot as he started to rake it in.

"Just a minute, Ham," said Honus. "Don't be too previous, and I'll show you a hand." Thereupon he laid down a deuce of hearts, a trey of hearts, a five of hearts and a six of hearts. "And this is what I drew," he added, laying the four of hearts on the table with the others.

Everybody looked for an explosion from Ham—an explosion besides which his earlier outbursts had been as a squirt from a pop gun. But Ham caressed them. All he said was, "Well, Honus, that's a good hand and you played it very well. It's your money."

The others choked and gasped with astonishment. They could not believe their own eyes and ears. Everybody wondered what on earth had come over the hot tempered Ham.

Well, Harry said, the game went along evenly after that for a time, and as it was getting late the other players and all the passengers who had gathered around went to their own berths, leaving the four players alone.

Finally, however, according to Harry, Al Mamaux came strolling in and sat down on the arm of the seat by Ham.

"Well, Ham," Al asked after watching the game a minute, "How are you making out?"

"Not very well," Ham replied, "I've lost thirty-seven dollars."

At this Al leaped straight up into the air. "What?" he shrieked, "You've lost thirty-seven dollars in a ten cent game?"

Ham fumbled and stuttered and attempted to frame a reply, but he didn't get a chance.

"Get out of that seat, you big bum," Al screamed at him, "after this I'll play my own money."

XAVIER'S JUNIORS BEAT S.P.S. XI; MIDGETS TIE

Public School Lose 1-0 Game After Hard Struggle; Goal Comes Near End

The St. Xavier's and Public School Juniors played at the Hongkew Recreation Ground on Wednesday afternoon, the St. Xavier's eleven winning by the score of one goal to nil.

The Public School, winning the toss, decided to play with the wind in their favor and soon invaded their opponents territory, but the Xavier's backs soon relieved the pressure.

Play was very even before lemon time, although the S. P. S. boys came very near scoring many times.

In the second half the Xavier's forwards got together and kept the S. P. S. goalie busy with many long shots. It was only within the last ten minutes of play that the winning goal was scored by Tordy after some fine combination with Santos. Drayson, Santos, and White played a fine game for St. Xavier's, while Turner of the S. P. S. played a sterling defensive game at back. Reverend Bro. Charles refereed the game.

MIDGETS GAME TIE

The St. Xavier's and the Shanghai Public School Midgets after a hard game, had to be contented with a tie. The Shanghai Public School was the first to score after about fifteen minutes of play. Morgan was responsible for the goal. Wally of the St. Xavier's tied the score in the second half.

The Story made Stevenson famous The Play made Mansfield famous—And now John Barrymore, America's greatest actor, gives new life to this, the world's strangest romance.
In playing "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" John Barrymore is competing with one who many think was the world's greatest actor—Richard Mansfield.
But Lloyd Osbourne, stepson of Stevenson, says:
"Barrymore is greater than Mansfield in 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.' It is doubtful if there will be such acting again in this generation or the next. Mansfield's characters were puppets. Barrymore shows real human beings."

CHEN TO KEEP ON DEFENSIVE AS TO FUKIEN

Has Troubles In Store On Western Border Of Kwantung

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, November 23.—General Liu Chen-huan, who is now on a visit to Canton to confer on military affairs with Generals Chen Chiung-ming and Yang Hsi-ming and Chuan Hsing-liang, leaders of the Yunnan troops, formerly belonging to General Chang Kai-shu, states as follows:

"General Chen Chiung-ming has decided to maintain a defensive attitude towards Fukien for the present, to concentrate his troops in the western part of Kuangtung and to take a positive action there previous to the advance southward of General Hsu Chung-chi's troops with a view to throwing his opponents into disorder as much as possible."

STILL IS DISTURBED

(China Press Service)

Foochow, Nov. 15.—The situation both outside and inside Foochow still remains disturbed. Yesterday (November 14,) a cipher telegram was received from the headquarters of the Southern forces in Amoy as follows:

"Lu Tse-ming to pass on to Commander Hsu Ch'ung-chi, greeting. Your telegram of the 12th received and understood. The Canton army (of Ch'en Chiung-ming) already has three regiments (4,500 men) assembled at Lung Yen. Huang T'o-ts'ai has already entered Chao An. Divison Commander Tsang (Chih-p'ing) is earnestly hoping that troops will be sent south from Foochow. What is regiment commander Liu's name and at what place has he arrived? Inform me so that I may join up with him. Chen, 13th."

DROWN POOR VICTIM

The seizing of ricsha men and coolies both inside and outside the city by soldiers of Wang Yung-ch'uan still continues. This has resulted in difficult communication between places and in a partial stoppage of the traffic of produce between the country and Foochow city. Yesterday afternoon soldiers of Wang Yung-ch'uan while engaged in conscripting coolies outside the Ching Lou gate of the city, chased a countryman into a pond. Every time he raised his head out of the water, they levelled their guns at him. Finally the young man sank and was drowned. The widowed mother, thus deprived of her main source of support, went to the civil Governor's yamen to make complaint.

Reports from many of the outlying districts show that brigandage is more rife than ever. In the village of P'an Hsu on Nantai Island, a prominent doctor, reported to be worth $20,000, was recently seized by brigands and held for a ransom of $15,000. This sum was afterwards reduced to $7,000.

GATE STARTS FIGHT

Disorders seem to be on the increase in the city itself. On the night of November 13, the brother of a regiment commander of the Self-government army was returning from Nantai at 2 a.m. He was suddenly brought to a halt on South street in the vicinity of Kung Hsiang by the refusal of the night watchman to obey his command and open the gate which barricaded the street. The brother of the regiment commander went away in high rage but soon returned with several soldiers. The barricade was torn down and the locks torn from all the street gates between that place and Shuang Meng Lou. A fight took place between the soldiers and a company of firemen who were on guard on south street. A number of the latter were injured and one seized.

For the greater part of yesterday (November 14,) all the shops were closed on Upper South Street and some on Back Street and West-gate street. The authorities promised to settle the difficulty. There is unrest in the public mind because of the addition of troops from outside.

It is reported, on apparently good authority, that the "Ninshin" recently brought in from the north 455 soldiers and the "Haean" over 200. It is felt that at this rate the burden of militarism in Fukien will be heavier than ever.

JACKSON HERE TUESDAY WITH BIG U. S. MAIL

Liner At Yokohama Today; Cleveland Takes Last Mail From U. S. Post Office

Bringing 1,391 bags of mail and a big passenger list for this port, the steamer President Jackson which left Seattle on November 11, is due at Kobe from Yokohama today and arrives in Shanghai next Tuesday.

Mail for the States will go on the President Cleveland next Tuesday and this is probably the last mail to be sent by the American Post Office before it closes on November 30. The Cleveland will leave Hongkong today and is to sail from Shanghai for Kobe, Yokohama, Honolulu and San Francisco on Tuesday.

A mail from Europe via the Suez arrived on the Kashgar early yesterday afternoon. The liner docked at the Shanghai end Hongkew Wharf and will sail for Japan ports tomorrow morning.

The last mail for European ports via the Suez to be sent by the British post office before its withdrawal, will close at 8:45 o'clock this morning and is to go on the Armand Behic.

The steamer will sail from its berth at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the tender with outbound passengers will leave the French mail jetty at 10 a.m.

The Cat And The Canary

BY DOMINO

Wild horses will not pull the plot of "The Cat And Canary" out of me even if I know it. I am at liberty to tell you this, the piece is a mystery play. Certainly no one could have guessed that he did —but I mustn't give him away.

The audience had any amount of real thrills out of the play and there was plenty of real humor which evoked much laughter.

Miss Dorris Kemper came out strong in the biggest part we have seen her in so far. She is undoubtedly an actress of ability. As Annabelle West she proved a distinct success. Bernard Nedell again showed himself a versatile artist, and he was able to get any amount of spontaneous laughter and applause by his clever comedy. He is becoming a fast favorite.

Miss Betty Barnicoat was also well in the picture and she sent her lines over in great style. That wonderful player Miss Florence Roberts made a genuine "Mammy" and put just the right amount of wierdness into it. "The Cat and The Canary" will be repeated this evening and should prove just the food that a Saturday night audience likes.

TRADE LEADERS NOW JOINING IN REPAYING MOVE

Business Interests Of France And Germany Working For Settlement

POINCARE'S HELP SOUGHT

Payment By Germany And Allied Evacuation Of Rhineland Proposed

BY CHARLES H. GRASTY
(New York Times)

Frankfort, Oct. 12.—Within the past few days the strongest movement since the armistice has been launched to bring about a settlement between France and Germany.

Big business interests in both countries, thoroughly aroused by the growing demoralisation of the exchange and the near-outbreak of hostilities at Constantinople, with its threat of plunging Europe into deeper misery, have joined hands in a supreme effort for some compromise that the politicians of the Paris and Berlin Governments can see their way to accept and execute. Elements hitherto passive have been stirred to activity, and I can state that the best minds in the business world of Germany and France are working in good earnest on plans to make an end of war differences. Broadly, these plans involve payment by Germany and evacuation of the Rhineland by France. Peace restoration and trade is the watchword. England is taking no part as yet, but will be welcomed to the council table and will no doubt gladly participate. For the time being the matter is one between France and Germany and these direct relations are considered favorable for results.

BUSINESS BACKING IS SOUGHT

Every effort is being made to shut out the old political animosities and to keep the negotiations on a strictly business basis. The support of the industrial elements in Germany, which heretofore has held aloof, would enable the Wirth government to move confidently. The success of these new negotiations would have far-reaching political results in Germany. It would bring to the support of the German democracy big business, which before the war was the cornerstone of the monarchial power. The People's Party would be set firmly in the Government bloc and Ebert's re-election in December would be assured.

If under this Franco-German leadership of business interests political differences can be reconciled, the way will be opened for a new and better era in both countries.

It is in Paris that the last word must be said. Much depends on whether Premier Poincare can and will open the door to this fresh initiative or whether the exigencies of French politics will steel him again anything but a settlement by compulsion.

It is believed that recent events in Turkey have created a more favorable atmosphere for these particular negotiations. France has shown her power in the Near East, but at the risk of her own isolation. If Poincare should now take up matters with Germany in a big, broad spirit and reach a settlement, France's policy in the Near East would be judged, as she wishes it to be, as an employment of her strength in behalf of peace.

HOPE OF POINCARE'S ASSENT

Another ground for hope of conciliatory action by the French Premier is his former stand for economic methods of settling reparations. Barthou's induction into the chairmanship of the commission may prepare the way for the kind of deloration of power to that commission for which Poincare contended when he himself was Chairman. Complete delegation of power to the Reparation Commission would be consistent with Poincare's record and would render infinitely easier an agreement on a purely economic solution.

German industrial interests are aroused to the necessity of action and are prepared to make big sacrifices. French business interests not only fear the uncertainties of the present situation, but see an opportunity of developing France's new industrial potentialities. This makes common ground on which such men as Stinnes in Germany and the Schneiders in France can stand and work together. Bankers in both countries share these views and are anxious to put an end to the long period of embarrassment and paralysis.

There is a broad political consideration that has been obscured in the intense struggle over the indemnity. Every one has recognised the justice of France's appeal for future security. Even those who have felt that she has pushed too hard for indemnity or that she was prone to use military force have sympathised with her in the plight in which the failure of the Anglo-American-French treaty left her.

To France the firm establishment of genuine constitutional government in Germany is of incalculable importance. If France can be convinced that republican government in Germany has come to stay, the guarantee that it will give her of security against future aggression will justify her in dealing leniently in regard to reparations. If constitutional government in Germany can be set firmly on its feet, it would be the best possible guarantee of future peace that France could have.

The settlement now being sought carries with it the assurance of a consolidation of all the middle elements in Germany in behalf of constitutional government. With the big business interests pledged to join up with the present government, the parties of republicanism will have passed from the stage of experi- next few weeks, it is believed that the result of the approaching presidential election will be an overwhelming victory for Ebert.

Such are the facts and information that hove been laid before the French Premier by representatives of business interests. It remains to be seen what effect they have had on the mind of M. Poincare.

Mary Garden Prefers Mules To Men, She Says

(China Press Service)

New York, November 21.—Mary Garden, noted grand opera singer, arrived from Europe today carrying a new cane. She lost nine pounds in climbing the Alps in Switzerland. She said mules were preferable to men because they were more easily managed.

Dutch Unemployed Smash Windows And Clash With Police

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, Nov. 23.—The police charged crowds of unemployed who were creating a disturbance by smashing the windows of warshouses in the center of the city.

Village Loses Last Light

London, Sept. 9.—The darkest place in England is to be found in a little village in Bedfordshire, where the last long light has been extinguished because no one would pay the expense of maintaining it. Now the melancholy howls of dogs and the measured tread of a solitary policeman are the only signs of life after dark.

The single gas lamp belonged to the trustees of the Baptist Chapel, who were instructed by the village fathers to light it nightly and send in the bill. The trustees performed their part and in due course presented a bill, which, including a charge for new mantles, amounted to one shilling and six pence. The auditors criticised the extra expense, called it an irregularity and refused to pay, so the trustees said if no cash was forthcoming there would be no light, and thereupon plunged the village into darkness.

World's Oldest Wasp

The most ancient wasp of which the world has yet revealed any trace has been found recently in the form of a perfect and beautiful fossil with wings outspread. It was found during geological explorations at the head of Bear Gulch, 12 miles from Una, Colorado, by Mr. John P. Byram.

Its disvovery is reported in Nature by Mr. T. D. A. Cockerell, of Colorado University, who states that the wasp is one of a number of fossil insects found recently at the same place.

The most fascinating fact about the insect is that it belongs to a modern genus, to which in color and every other aspect it corresponds, even to a certain "strong dusky cloud" on the wings.

The geological formation in which it was discovered is green river Eocene, and Mr. Cockerell says, "it is, I think, the most impressive instance of the persistence of type I have ever seen, when we consider that it belongs to a highly specialised group of insects, and proves that within this group there has, at least in one line, been no change of form and color in the many millions of years which we now believe to have elapsed since the Eocene.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—We have had another week of very little interest, with fluctuations within narrow limits, influenced from day to day by Mid-Americans and the operations of speculators at the "Exchanges." Domestic Mills' interest in the market is limited and exports are at a standstill.

From the above it will be seen that as far as the general outlook is concerned, we consider a steady level of prices warranted for the legitimate surroundings.

Yarn.—Since our last report, our market has been keeping steady, prices having declined some two to three taels as compared with last week's level. Some 3-4000 bales of various counts and chops of local products have changed hands between dealers for exports, and no sales are reported with local mills.

SPUNTS REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market.

China Cotton: During the early part of the week under review our market manifested a slight weakness in that prices declined about Tls. 0.50 per picul, brought about by offerings hard pressed for immediate cash and no sooner such a situation disappeared, there evolved at the close a firmness tending to a recovery of the same level in rates as was current at the time when our last circular was issued. The general sentiment for the moment, in the trade, while not decidedly bullish for the immediate future, is strong in the belief that any depreciation that may be experienced will be only temporary. The varied fluctuations in Mid-Americans and Indians on the whole point to a steady position. And were it not for the continued inactivity in our yarn market, prices on the local staple would have registered more of an advance than otherwise. The receipts from the interior marts showed a marked diminution in quantities when compared with that in the previous period, indicating the strength of holders and their expectation of better returns, when a general demand arises, for their stocks. The Tone of the Market is Steady.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

November 24, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up 1-16d. in London yesterday. The New York price as well as the London New York cross rate is unchanged.

The only change in our official quotations here today is a rise in the Franc rate to 990.

While steadying up slightly at times our market here on the whole was weak today. At one time in the morning business in Sterling was done at 3s. 2⅛d. for November-December-January delivery and in Gold Dollars at 71½ November, 71⅝ December and 71¾ for forward delivery.

However speculators became buyers at these rates and as there was little covering offering in the way of bills, banks were unwilling sellers.

Business in Sterling was at one time done as low as 3s. 1⅞d. for December-January delivery and in Gold Dollars at 71⅛.

At the close the market however was a shade steadier than this there being sellers of Sterling at 3s. 1⅞d. for all deliveries this side of China New Year and of Gold Dollars at 71¼ November-December and 71⅜ for forward.

There were sellers of Yen at the close at 67¼ and buyers at 67⅛. Banks were quoting 2s. 2⅝d. for Sterling bills, 73¼ for Gold Dollar bills and 1030 for Franc bills.

India bought a small amount of silver in London yesterday and the market there as well as in New York is reported as easy.

Weekly Review Of Shanghai Markets

BY THE FINANCIAL EDITOR

The metals market this week, as far as indent business is concerned was rather like last, except that there has been greater activity in galvanised sheets, with some business put through. This stands out prominently in view of the fact that no business was done for many weeks in this line.

For some time there has been practically nothing doing in the metals section, although there has been some spasmodic transactions in a few lines now and again, but not of a nature to cause merchants to enthuse over.

The local tin market is quiet, the quotation being nominal at Tls. 65 per picul, ex-godown. Kwah Hung Tin is quoted at Tls. 63 cif Shanghai duty not paid, which, with duty paid, comes up to Tls. 65.70 per picul. The difference between Hongkong and Singapore tin prices is, therefore, about 65 cents per picul, and consequently there are no buyers for Hongkong tin.

In lead the market has been very active, the dealers asking Tls. 11 per picul, ex-godown Shanghai. Some business was done this week at this rate.

In China there is a widespread apathy to all kinds of buying. Shading quotations, according to the importing firms, has no effect on the metals customer. This is generally explained by those in touch with the prevailing situation as due to the uncertain political conditions, which are still practically as unsettled as they were several months ago.

Lower quotations from European sellers and a belief that the American market will probably set another recession of prices are also attributed as causes of the present lack of interest.

Despite the present dullness it is believed that a gradual improvement is under way and that next spring will as least see some buying.

A peculiar situation exists in the Japanese metals market on light gage black sheets, 13 to the bundle. Because of the large stocks on hand and the general depression in buying, the same brand of sheets that is now selling in the United States for G$95 per ton cif Japanese port, is selling at $85 per ton and less in Japan from stocks in that country.

The Japanese Government steel works have succeeded in piling up huge stocks of its products and are now busy in selling them below market quotations. It is stated that as much as 75,000 tons remain to be disposed of, and in face of such a report it is not surprising that the Japanese iron and steel markets should be flat.

The London Metals Exchange prices are steady, and some of the principal quotations are:—

Standard Copper ....£63 3-8 for spot and £64¼ future.

Electrolytic Copper ....£70¾ spot and £71¼ future delivery.

Tin .....£178 3-8 against £177½ for spot and £179 1-8 against £178 1-8 last week for future.

Spelter .....£38¼ for spot against £39 last week.

Lead .....£26 for spot and £24 5-8 for future delivery.

Electrolytic copper in New York is quoted at 13 7-8

CHINA TEA

The tea season has practically been brought to a close for lack of any quantity of desirable teas. The feature of the month has been the steady drop in exchange and the continued signs of its weakness. From the figures given by teamen there would appear to be a stock of some 7,000 half-chests of black tea, but there is no tea on this market except a grade rather inferior to the United States Government Standard and there have been transactions in this at Tls. 22. to Tls. 25. or 9d. to 9¾d. c. i. f. London, 14½ cts. to 16½ cts., c. i. f. New York.

Arrivals of Congous uptodate this season total 148,937 half-chests against 10,923 half-chests in 1921-1922. The present stock comprises 7,148 half-chests against 4,772 half-chests same time last year.

Arrivals of green teas have ceased and no more will come now. A fair business has been transacted in common to medium Sow Mees and the market has advanced Tls. 2 during the month.

Reports from London show stagnation in the Green Tea trade.

Arrivals of Country Teas and local packed teas up till now amount to 205,288 half-chests, against 138,528 half-chests same time last season.

The market has been cleared of all Hoochow and Pingsuey teas, two fairly desirable chops, and teamen are holding these for Tls. 27. Our market has firmed up steadily, but doubtful whether the remaining chop and lines left over out of chops would be allowed into the United States. A great factor this year in the early demand from London for the first clearance of Pingsueys has been the five lines of chops, and earlier in the season the Chinese were quite willing to break up chops for this purpose.

Arrivals of Hoochow and Pingsury teas this season totalled 140,664 half-chests, against 125,180 half-chests, last season.

Stock amounts to 19,120 half-chests against 22,291 half-chests.

Latest ruling quotations in London for China tea are as follows:

Finest Souchong, 38 to 42d. per lb.

Medium to Finest Keemun, 11 to 35d. per lb.

Common Moning, 10d. per lb.

Common to Finest Chun Mees, to to 25d. per lb.

Common to Fine Sow Mees, 5½d. per lb.

Panyang, 10½d. to 12d. per lb.

MANUFACTURED SILK

The pongee market has been very strong throughout the past fortnight.

The demand has been principally for light weight Shantungs and Ninghais. Sales of a few thousand pieces were effected at top prices.

The price of tussah silk has appreciated to Tls. 805 for spot supplies and Tls. 750 for future delivery.

The China Merchants Pongee Association states that the market is strong with an upward tendency.

The latest quotations are as follows: for Nanshan Ninghais:

Yards	Oz.	Tls.
19/20	90	22.00
19/20	38/40	13.00
48/50	95/100	33.00
19/20	80/85	23.50
28/30	120/125	29.50
28/30	125/130	31.50

HAIRNETS

There has been a consistently good demand during the past fortnight for double cap hairnets, principally from the United States, which has served to improve the tone of the local market and stiffen rates at the same time.

Supplies are coming in steadily, but visible stocks are indeed small. Double capnets have improved as a result of the steady purchasing by the American exporting house in Shanghai. The market is steady.

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros. in their weekly report, state that owing to the very low prices for single nets the making of these has been stopped in Chefoo. The makers are discouraged by the absence of demand for this class of hairnets.

Latest prices are as follows:

10/38 single $1.80 and double $3.80 per gross.

12/38 single $2.40 and double $4.40 per gross.

38/40 single $3.40 and double $4.40 per gross.

PIECE GOODS

The demand for stocks of Greys and Whites continues good, but it is now largely speculative, reports from Yangtsze districts in particular not being quite so promising. Prices are firm and advances of from two to five mace have been established for White Shirtings; offers for Best qualities are, however, still quite inadequate. Dealers are making substantial reductions of their holdings and there has been a good turnover from second-hands for early shipment and apparently to feed actual Trade demand.

Auctions:—All three sales found very brisk bidding—Trade demand being largely from Tsingtau and the Yangtsze Ports. Prices advanced throughout and this was assisted by offers from speculators.

Home Market:—Cotton from Liverpool is d14.90 Spot American and d18.50 Spot F.G.F. Egyptian. Despite paucity of fresh inquiries Makers present a bold front and it has been difficult to obtain even small concessions for small forward offers put forward this week. This is not altogether surprising, as it is frequently a choice between shutting down or accepting unremunerative work to keep looms moving.

TO EXPRESS YOUR FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE you search for gifts with special meaning, recalling childhood's radiant partnerships,—the esteem that has grown under trying experiences,—the rugged regard of one real friend for another.

Sentiment is simple, going direct from one heart to another, and the gift which bears it, costing little or much, must express a sympathetic understanding of the hobbies and tastes of the friend that receives it. Thus it is the approach of Christmas that makes

American Bankers' Association On Reparations and Debts

THE thousands of bankers who attended the forty-eighth Annual convention of the American Bankers' Association in New York at the end of October carried away with them the question that had been of principal importance at the sessions of the convention—that of the allied debts and reparations, and what foreign policy the United States should pursue in the present state of the world—back home for continued discussion in their own communities.

The greatest accomplishment of the convention, in the minds of bankers interested in world affairs, was to crystallise banking opinion throughout America. A feeling of vague confusion, due to lack of information, had been common among many bankers not in close touch with foreign affairs. The result was a great division of opinion among bankers, and an inability to answer the questions of their clients who were worried about the effect of America's isolation policy upon trade.

Now that the subject has been thoroughly discussed on the floor of the convention by such men as Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Thomas W. Lamont of the international banking house of J. P. Morgan and Co., the bankers are able to take back home a fund of information they had not had before. They heard Mr. McKenna answer the question of what the debtor nations could pay and what would be the effect upon world trade and American prosperity if payment in full from all of them were enforced. The bankers who heard Mr. McKenna's speech, according to reports of the convention applauded him long and vigorously, and it was easy to see that they were deeply impressed by his opinions.

Mr. McKenna, who is now Chairman of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., of London, told the delegates that England was the only one of the debtor nations that could pay her debt to the United States, but that she would "honor her bond in full." France, which was best on financially of the allied nations after England, would not be able to meet her obligations in full, because of the worthlessness of her investments in Russia and other war-wrecked countries. It was hopeless to expect much from the other allies. He was sure that Germany could not make any very large payments in reparations, as her foreign investments were not large enough to meet the claims upon her.

Any attempt to enforce payment of the debts beyond the ability of the debtor nations to pay. Mr. McKenna pointed out, would be fraught with most serious consequences to the United States, as well as to the rest of the world. In such an event, he predicted damage to the foreign trade of the whole world, reduced profits, lower wages, unemployment, lower standards of living. The United States and England, as the creditor countries of the rest of the world, he said, would enjoy greater advantages from the trade that would follow a co-operative attitude toward their debtors than from trying to collect the debts in full.

To meet the demand for constructive recommendations Mr. McKenna advocates a "full and frank conference" between debtor and creditor nations in order to discover the exact amount that could be paid by the nations unable to meet their debt in full. He also urged the American bankers to use their influence in favor of a definite postponement of payment, which he said would be to the interest of all parties. Mr. McKenna also suggested that the pressure of the reparations payments be lifted from Germany so that the mark could be stabilised. With that done, he thought, the foreign assets held by German nationals could be converted into a sum of perhaps a billion dollars as a reparation payment. He suggested a moratorium of three years to follow this. After such a period, he believed, it would be possible to collect further reparations up to the amount of Germany's annual exportable surplus.

In an interview with newspaper men Mr. McKenna said that America would soon discover, as England had in the past, that a policy of "splendid isolation" would not work. He said that America should 'take an oar in the boat," and would have to do so eventually in order to protect her own interests in foreign trade.

Regarding the conference to discuss the funding of the allied debt, Mr. McKenna said that prospects for definite action would be better if the American Commissioners had more power than had been granted. He pointed out that the English Commissioners had plenary powers. Once the funding of the debt is settled, Mr. McKenna said, England will pay the interest and sinking fund on her debt in gold.

Mr. McKenna said that he considered an American loan to Germany necessary, but that this would have to wait until conditions were right. First must come a moratorium long enough to permit the stabilisation of the mark and the turning over of Germany's foreign assets to the Reparation Commission.

Mr. Lamont, in his address to the convention, said he was convinced that the debt problem must be solved before Europe could be stabilised; that the question of what Germany could pay as reparations had become of secondary importance to that of what the Allies could pay to the United States. He urged the bankers to think deeply and soundly on whether America really was entitled to all of the $11,000,000,000 owed to her by the Allies, and intimated his belief that we should forgive that half of the debt which was incurred between the time we entered the war and the time our soldiers reached the trenches in force. He urged the bankers to reach some definite conclusion on what ought to be done, and to do their part in forming an intelligent public opinion on the foreign question.

Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, stopping in New York on his way to Paris, told the convention that he was confident America would come to a rational solution of the problem, and would put forward a program within a year that would lead to the rehabilitation of Europe.

Thomas B. McAdams, retiring President of the A. B. A. and Vice President of the Merchants National Bank of Richmond, Va., raised his voice against the isolation policy, but said we must lay down the conditions on which we agree to help Europe.

The opinion of the convention on the foreign question was expressed by the adoption of a report of the Resolutions Committee. The convention held that the time had come for the Government of the United States "to formulate the principles on which it will be able to co-operate with other nations to bring about the needed rehabilitation of European countries and peace in the world." It also urged the Harding Administration to consider making its representative on the Debt Funding Commission an official of that body, and urged Congress to grant the commission further powers to enable it to carry on more effective negotiations.

"The weather was dull," Reuter informs us in a story concerning the opening of Parliament. Nothing was said about the speeches.

CUDDLE TIME

As the evening shadows gather
Then the cuddle time I know
When my baby, dressed for Dreamland
Comes a-romping to me so—
Comes and begs of me to hold him
On my knee and 'rockaby'
As the purpling sun sinks lower
In the gleaming Western sky.

Soon the drooping, drooping lashes
Cover tired eyes of brown
And I know that into Dreamland
My wee-golden head has gone.
Ah, the sweetness of the pleasure
Making life one golden rhyme,
With a dimpled babe to fondle
When it cometh 'cuddle-time.'

An excruciatingly funny thing happened in Hongkong 'tother day. For the benefit of our British readers we reproduce the incident from the Hongkong Telegraph:

"Double-one-six-four," said a solicitor in the Summary Court, this morning, giving the number of a case in which he was interested.

"I don't know why you say, 'double-one,'" Mr. Justice Gompertz rebuked him; "it is not a telephone number."

General Feng And His Future

Will He Rise To The Occasion?

General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general, renowned for his wise and unselfish administration of Shansi, equally as for his military ability in the field, has come to Peking, not blatantly as most of the "generals" of late years have come but as befits his beliefs, in a humble spirit as a servant of the people and not a truculent warlord, writes a correspondent of the North China Mail.

A great future awaits the general; how great one is loth to put bounds to if he, a great general, and we use the adjective in its best sense, can withstand the subtleties and influences of Peking and can remain as he has arrived, a simple-minded gentleman.

Peking exercises upon the temperaments and minds of both Chinese and foreigners a most benumbing influence, and seems to raise its walls around the minds and intelligences of most of those who stay too long within its gates, stunting their imagination, enfeebling their intellects, deadening all sense of patriotism and political faith, and making men but animals whose one and only anxiety in life is to get as much money and retire as fast as possible.

The one thing that all the friends of China want to know today is, in what capacity does General Feng come to take up the guarding of the capital? Does he come as the servant of the Government of China? Are his men with him as servants of the people of China? Are he and they ready to abide by the orders of the Government of China, or are he and his army but another of the discordant units who, fighting for this faction or that, bring distraction and discord to a country already overwhelmed?

General Feng has an opportunity afforded to few men in China. He has had experience in the governance of a province and he has governed it well. There is no gainsaying that the roads, schools, and municipal and provincial administration of Shansi, reflect great credit upon him. Equally with his administrative practice he has gained military experience, not alone, as is usual with Chinese generals, by sitting in safe camps and drawing the money, but actual war experience that reflects much honor on himself, his staff and his army. If General Feng has come to Peking as the servant of the Government and if the Government are for reunification, then his coming is a thing to be grateful for, because with his force of seasoned soldiers, the Government have at last the means not only of reunification, but also of disbanding the various war lords' armies who are beggaring the country and rendering all talk of reunification futile.

A striking force of fifteen thousand well equipped and seasoned troops holding the rail center of Peking could, if properly handled, do much to make things most uncomfortable for the red hot warlords and their ragged mobs of ill-armed coolies, for whose reputed upkeep the Central Government is everlastingly being threatened and badgered for money. If General Feng is sincere—and we have reason to believe that he is—it will no longer be possible for dissatisfied and disgruntled warlords to pour masses of bandits misnamed "armies" into Chihli because they do not control the exchequer and because the Peking government are trying to act fairly to all the employes equally and not the warlords alone.

We believe that General Feng has come to try and aid the Central Government. We believe that with his help and with the assistance he will get from Drs. Yen, Wang, Wellington Koo and others of the more enlightened of the Peking statesmen, it will yet be possible to raise China from the slough of debt and financial dishonor, into which the actions of the Anfuites and other desperadoes have put her, but we also know that the influences for evil are stronger in Peking than in most places and that already steps are being taken to prevent the essential funds being maintained to pay General Feng's troops. We venture to think that the dangers of and from the politicians in Peking are greater than the dangers in the firing line; that the difficulty of disbandment and dispersal of the armies of recalcitrant war lords will have to be fought with words than in the field with arms. We believe from everything that is happening as these words are being written, that the courage of General Feng will be tried to the uttermost amid the half hidden political intrigue going on at this time, whose partisans will let no scruple stand in the way of the enhancement of their bank balances. Because General Feng is a Christian we look to him to have and maintain a greater steadfastness and courage than others, as it will be this source of strength which alone will bring him through scathless where others might fall faint-hearted by the way.

What China needs today is strength, not the strength of armies or of gold, but the strength of one man to lift her up and set her on her feet again. Republics there have been through the ages, but no Republic to the full degree. The essence of all Government is—force. It is shown by the police in our towns and the judgment halls of our peoples wherever the governments of men exist. Republics have been made and maintained by force usually of one man during the years of their infancy, as witness Washington, Lenin and Robespierre, but China has never had such a man to carry her through the first stormy days of her republican life. No cackling of a thousand parliamentary representatives is going to bind China together and make a homogeneous whole of her scattered units, but one man, with a small and efficient army, upheld by a steadfast courage and high resolve, fearing naught and caring nothing for personal ambition and advancement, might well do it, as Washington did in times past.

General Feng has taken up the task of guarding Peking and its North East approaches; may we not hope that the strong man of China will yet arise so that in the future it will not be necessary for a military guard to be set about the approaches to the capital and that General Feng, who in the past has shown such consideration for all that is good in modern government, may yet rise to greater heights of military and administrative usefulness?

The Seeds Of Future Suns

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

THE Harvard Observatory announces that recently nearly two thousand new nebulae have been discovered on ninety celestial photographs made with the Bruce telescope at Arequipa, Peru. The meaning is not that these nebulae are of recent formation, but that they are "new" in the sense of having never before been observed by astronomers looking out from this little planet which we call the earth, but which the inhabitants of the regions where the nebulae exist have no name, for the very good reason that, unless in their nature they are much nearer to gods than we are, they cannot know that there is such a thing as the earth.

From their distance they might possibly see the sun in a powerful telescope as a faint star among countless millions of others, but they could no more glimpse the earth than we could see a speck of dust on the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

These two thousand "new" nebulae carry the known number of such objects that astronomers have found in the sky up to about 20,000.

Twenty thousand celestial mysteries! For it is perfectly correct to speak of a nebula as something mysterious. It is a cloud-like thing in appearance, as its name implies, but the filmiest cloud that floats in our atmosphere is doubtless thousands of times denser than any nebula. Yet, owing to their vast size, notwithstanding their immense distance, these objects glow like phosphorescent specks and spots on the dark background of fathomless space. A very few of them are visible to the naked eye. The most wonderful of these is in the constellation Orion, which forms the greatest starry decoration of the Winter evening sky.

The cause of the visibility of the nebulae we do not know. It cannot be heat sufficient to produce incandescence, as happens with the sun, for the gaseous particles composing them are too scattered to accumulate a high temperature. Their light may be due to some electrical effect.

They contain a substance which is peculiar to them and not known to exist anywhere else in the universe. This substance, evidently in the gaseous state, has been named "nebulium." What it is we do not know. Its spectrum resembles that of nitrogen, but it is not nitrogen. Some have speculated that it may be a "primal stuff" out of which the familar chemical elements composing the universe are evolved when the nebulae turn into stars—i.e. into suns.

This is an interesting hypothesis because, together with its corollary that nebulae are the seeds of suns, it makes easy thinking when we try to imagine the origin and the process of creation of the universe. We have some experimental evidence that chemical elements do evolve one out of another, and the temptation is strong to believe that they may all start from a single common form or state.

Pursuing that idea, we imagine creation to start with all things in a nebulous (or cloud like) condition. We peer around us in the depths of the heavens, and we say: "Look! There actually are vast masses of forming matter in just that starting state. See the foggy stars scattered through some of them; they must be forming suns, coming into existence through the condensation of the nebulous matter. If we could watch them long enough we should see them turn into complete suns, while all the nebulous stuff would disappear like a cloud condensing into raindrops."

The theory that nebulae are the seeds, or seed grounds, of future suns seems to be strengthened by the fact that, in addition to the mysterious gas "nebulium," they contain helium, which is a distinctively solar element, and hydrogen, which is the lightest known of all elements, and appears conspicuously in all the stars that for various reasons we look upon as at a relatively early stage of their development. To have two thousand more of these filmy cradles of baby suns added, quite suddenly, to the number already known is an item of news that must surely interest every thinking person.

But, I must not neglect to say that there is a wide difference in nebulae. They do not all show indication of an evolution from the nebular toward the stellar state. Only the "green" nebulae do that. But there are "white" nebulae which seem to possess an entirely different constitution. They are not marked by the spectroscopic evidence of a gaseous state, but, on the contrary, they seem to shine already with the light of stars, or of solidified matter.

From them the mysterious "nebulium," if it ever existed there, has vanished, together with the other light gases. These are the so-called spiral nebulae, which some astronomers opine may be outer systems beyond the boundaries of our Milky Way. About one-third of the newly discovered nebulae are of this spiral kind.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS
above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the lassitude and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician knowing of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results." W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments." F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home." WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine." N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Weather Report

Nov. 23.—The barometer has started falling in the Upper Yangtsze Valley; the anti-cyclone advances from Mongolia to Manchuria; the Northern depression moves away across the Kuriles. The day is exceedingly fine and mild in our Valley; overcast weather with fairly sharp cold in the North. Moderate or light monsoon, all along the coast.

Nov. 24.—Weather perfectly fine with mild temperature; remarkably heavy dew in the morning. The breeze is veering to the S. quadrant and the pressure falling at a fairly good rate.

Bandits Rob Wu's Home; Now Will Try To Curb Them

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 21.—An unofficial report states that the outlaws in the vicinity of Loyang raided his residence during General Wu's absence, and that General Wu has himself taken the field against them.

According to another report General Wu communicated with the bandits concerning the foreigners in their hands and was informed that the prisoners would be released on payment of ransoms. The report does not say whether or not the amounts required were stated.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 22.—Reports from Honan state that General Wu Pei-fu is actively endeavoring to obtain the release of the foreigners held by bandits. It is expected that he will soon be successful.

The following graphic account of adventures experienced within a stone's throw of General Wu Pei-fu's stronghold at Loyang is taken from a letter from the Rev. E. O. Beinhoff to his wife, and is dated November 13 published in the Central China Post:

"I came back from Shanchow yesterday. The reason why I have not written these days has been that my mind has been so upset through some experiences I have passed through. I left Mienchih as I planned on Wednesday last and got as far as Changmao (55 miles from Loyang) that day. From Kuanyintang to Changmao was absolutely peaceful. There was not the slightest indication of any disturbance anywhere.

"We settled down quietly in the big inn north of the road. The mule was fed and we had our supper in perfect peace. I stood awhile in my door and while I was looking over the carts and mules in the inn I thought that people moved about in an unusually quiet way, and when I inquired about it my carter said: 'We have to pray tonight because there is a rumor that south of Hsiashi there are about 400 robbers and the people are afraid they might come to Changmao tonight.'

"I told him to put the mule before the cart at once and we would continue west, but he was not willing because he said: 'Where can we go now in the dark, and the other carts are not moving, and further, we have nine soldiers in the inn sleeping with us and they have promised to sleep in the big gate should the robbers come.' I thought under such circumstances it was a rather risky thing to go out of the inn and especially as the soldier guard still remained in the town.

THE ROBBERS ARRIVE

"I shut my door and took the money I had out of my pocket and put it on the table in order to pack what I had in my bag and sat on the bed preparing to go to sleep, when I heard a fearful bang on the inn door and a yelling, a shout that cannot be described. I rushed out with only my cap on my head, forgetting all in the room, and as soon as I got out everybody in the yard was seeking a way out, or rushing hither and thither in the empty caves.

"I saw what I was in for at once and took my chance of escape. I made for the back yard and looking up toward the north saw there was no way out there. I rushed back and toward the east in the corner rushed for the wall. By that time the robbers were quite close to me but could not see me because the moon had not come high enough to light the yard. I got over the wall and in another minute I reached a tree and climbed it, jumped over another wall and in to another courtyard, not knowing where I was going while I heard the most awful thinks in the inn yard.

"Finally I saw a ladder which was put in one yard as a way of escape and used by women and children. I rushed for it and reached the open fields above. By that time I did not know how many courtyards I had crossed. Thankful to be out of imminent danger I went back and crawled over the edge of the field next to the inn to see what was going on. But I could not remain very long because of the bullets flying everywhere.

A NIGHT IN HIDING

"I made in haste for a hiding place in the hills above Changmao together with hundreds of other refugees. We reached a place where only one poor shepherd lived and I crawled in among goats and sheep where it was warm, and spent the night partly in the cave and partly on the fields watching with others to see if the robbers would come north or not. This anxious watching continued until dawn when the message came that the soldiers had come and the robbers had left, and what the latter had left behind the soldiers picked up.

"I reached the inn about 8.20 in the morning and found my carter sitting beside the cart crying because he and the inn-keeper thought they had seen me tied and taken off by the robbers. Nobody in the inn escaped but myself. The mule is gone, my best camera, my raincoat, my bedding, my lantern, my best black hat, my toilet things with my Gilette razor and other things with $20 in silver. I was grateful, however, that I had managed to escape because no one could have been nearer capture than I was that night.

"I have heard later that those they carried off have been shot in the mountains. I feel the loss of my beautiful mule most of all, and the camera. The officials are without resources and before this dangerous situation a helpless lot. The military loaned me a couple of animals which took my cart to Shanchow where I left it.

"A day later a message came that the soldiers at Kuanyintang had met the robbers in a mountain pass and fought them with the consequence that most of the animals fell into the hands of the soldiers. Hearing this I left Shanchow at once with an escort and reached Kuanyintang in a day but found that my animal was not in the lot. The robbers had divided themselves into two parties and my mule had gone due south. Now I am on my way to Honanfu to see Wu Pei-fu. I don't think I will get any satisfaction from him in the least but I want to let him know the condition of the country.

"Later the robbers, after having been defeated by the soldiers, came back to Hsiashih and attacked the outpost. The foreigners have left and the work on the railway is partly suspended. The situation seems to be hopeless. There is not much to do except to go home and leave poor old China to perish in her rottenness. The soldiery are the most rotten lot you can imagine. They never prevent a thing to happen but encourage it and the spoil usually falls into their hands. It is their definite tactics."

SURVIVORS OF EXPLOSION TELL TERRIBLE TALE

One Had To Climb Over The Corpses Of Comrades To Made Escape

(Reuter's Service)

Birmingham, Alabama, Nov. 23—It is now believed that 100 persons are dead as a result of the mine explosion. Eighty-three bodies have been recovered. Many of the 60 persons injured are expected to die.

Most of the victims of the Dolomite mine explosion were killed near the point of the explosion. Tremendous holes were blown in the workings. The majority of the men elsewhere escaped with their faces muffled in their clothing.

A survivor related horrible scenes at the main entry to the pit where he passed over corpses and heard those badly injured moaning for aid as the fatal afterdamp entered their lungs.

Thirty men saved their lives by blocking up a passage and shutting out the poisonous gases until the fans were restarted to clear the air.

The rescuers worked throughout the night and there were many scenes of heroism. The mine was a soft-coal mine and employed both whites and negroes.

U. S. LABOR WILL NOT TAKE PART IN HAGUE TALK

Refuses To Be Bound By Any Agreement For World Wide Strike

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 23. — Mr. Samuel Gompers, on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, has rejected the invitation to take part in the International Trade Union Conference at the Hague on December 10.

The American Federation of Trade Unions has sent to Mr. J. H. Thomas, head of the International Federation, a statement declaring that American trade unions are not willing to commit themselves to any agreement with regard to an international strike in case of war or to renounce national entity, seek nationalisation of wealth or enter any gathering where the trend of discussions is arranged in advance.

British Supreme Court

Application for an order extending the time in which to file the allotment of shares was made by Mr. G. H. Wright of Hanson's on behalf of Morgan Weitzer and Company before Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court yesterday. Mr. H. P. Wilkinson represented the Registar of Companies.

Mr. Wright said that the application was made by Morgan Weitzer & Co., Ltd., a small private company organised under the Hongkong ordinance and carrying on business in Tientsin. There were six shareholders, and he (Counsel) asked for an order extending the time in which to file the allotment of shares.

The application was made under Section 90, sub-section 3 of the Hongkong ordinance, 1911. In support of the application he produced an affidavit which had been filed by the present managing director, Mr. Marcus Silverberg, in which he said that the fur company was organised in 1920, Mr. John Henry Morgan was managing director in 1922 but he had been seriously ill and had now left the company. The company had not retained a legal adviser. The failure to file a return of the allotment of shares was due to inadvertence and not to any wrong motive.

The Judge: It is a private company, so no one suffers.

Mr. Wright: Not necessarily. The failure to file was due to the serious illness of the managing director, who had been replaced last month by another.

The Crown Advocate said he appeared on behalf of the Registrar of the Companies. He did not oppose the application, but Counsel pointed out the fact admitted in the affidavit that the company did not retain a legal adviser. He had to point out that if people in forming themselves into companies and leaving undone the annual and other observances required by law for them to do as they were incorporated under the Order in Council then he was instructed to say that those persons would surely get into trouble. There were companies, private and public, who were registered and had legal advice, but afterwards they left everything to chance. It would pay them to make some sort of arrangement as to a legal adviser. The Crown Advocate also touched on the question of relief of the company as well as shareholders.

The Judge remarked that he quite agreed with the statement made by the Crown Advocate. Those applications to the Court were becoming too common. He had had several before him recently and in future he would really consider very carefully whether he should grant relief. Of course in that case today it was obvious that time had to be extended for the purpose of the administration, of the company and to grant relief. The Court would take cognisance of what the Crown advocate had said. It was the duty of companies, when forming, to have a proper legal adviser and afterwards. In future all cases coming before him or his learned colleague would be seriously considered in cases brought up as to whether it was right to grant relief. On this occasion he would pursue the course usually pursued by that Court and grant an extension.

Mr. Wright suggested ten days.

The Judge: Yes. The order made with costs.

Mr. Wilkinson remarked that companies took legal advice when they formed themselves and then had no more of it.

The Judge: Yes, and employ Mr. Wright to straighten things out for them.
